Situation Update – Memorial Day 2019 Tornadoes

Over 20 not-for-profit and faith-based organizations are collaborating with local, state, and federal government partners to form and coordinate a community-based long-term recovery group in the Miami Valley in response to the Memorial Day tornado outbreak. The Miami Valley Long-Term Recovery Operations Group (MVLTRG) elected leadership on July 30th and will formalize its bylaws next week. The group is working to develop coordination mechanisms to ensure access to and effective delivery of resources to address disaster-caused needs within impacted communities in the Miami Valley. The group recently formalized its structure and also launched a website.

Sequence of Disaster Assistance

The MVLTRG leadership includes representation from St. Vincent de Paul, Miami Valley Community Action Partnership, The Dayton Foundation, and Lutheran Social Services. The leadership group is working provide strategic direction for the group and its committees - Finance, Material Management, Emotional and Spiritual Care, Disaster Case Management, Volunteer Management, Housing/Repair & Rebuild - will develop operational policies and procedures to guide distribution of goods and resources (see organizational chart on page 3). Central to this process is disaster case management, a system by which disaster survivors collaborate with a skilled recovery partner to develop and achieve realistic disaster recovery goals. The disaster case management process follows the sequence of assistance (see graphic a) in order to ensure that survivors are able to access available local, state, and federal assistance. ### Volunteer and Community Engagement Opportunities

LSS assisted in the development of the newly launched Miami Valley Strong website to assist tornado survivors to more easily find assistance and give those who want to help a faster way to identify volunteer opportunities or donate to relief efforts. The website - www.MVStrong.org - will serve as a central point to give and get help. Any group interested in volunteering is encouraged to visit the website as new volunteer opportunities are added on a regular basis.

Any not-for-profit or faith-based organization (including churches) that experienced physical damage from the tornadoes or that has been providing assistance to affected residents is invited to attend a community workshop on August 6 10am-noon at Sinclair Community College, Building 12, Room 12131, 12 W 4th St, Dayton, OH 45402 with validated parking available in the garage under Building 12.
